

Prof. Mario MARIANI, MSc degree cum laude in Chemistry at Università di Pavia in 1984 and PhD in Chemical Sciences (Rome, 1988). In 1992 he joined Politecnico di Milano as Assistant Professor at Nuclear Engineering Department. Full Professor at the Energy Department, he performs educational and research activities in the fields of nuclear- and radio-chemistry, radiation chemistry, dosimetry, nuclear decommissioning and waste management. Academic and Institutional roles: Coordinator of Nuclear Engineering Division, Head of Radiochemistry and Radiation Chemistry Lab, Member of Council Department Managing Board, Faculty Board Member of PhD Programme in Energy and Nuclear Science and Technology- STEN, Lecturer of MSc course Applied Radiochemistry and PhD specialist courses.

Besides several national projects and contracts supported by public organizations and industrial companies, POLIMI Scientific Responsible and Governing Council Member for several Euratom Projects on hydrometallurgical separation processes on nuclear wastes, on Nuclear Materials and for Education and Training in Nuclear and Radiochemistry. In the field of decommissioning of industrial and nuclear plant and waste management, responsible of several contracts and collaboration with EC-JRC Ispra, ENI Group, SOGIN Group, Ansaldo Nucleare and other private companies. Author and/or co-author of a hundred of papers on international journals.